

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Charles H. Norchi, co-editor of this volume, is Professor of Law and Director of the Center for Oceans and Coastal Law in the University of Maine School. Professor Norchi serves as Chair of the Admiralty and Maritime Law Section of the American Association of Law Schools (AALS), Co-Chair of the Institute for Law and Development Policy in Geneva, Switzerland, is a Fellow of the Explorers Club and a member of the Advisory Committee of the Hong Kong Centre for Maritime and Transportation Law. Professor Norchi holds an A.B. from Harvard University, a J.D. from Case Western Reserve University School of Law, an LL.M. and J.S.D. from Yale Law School.

Gwenaële Proutière-Maulion, co-editor of this volume, is Vice President for International and European Relations in the University of Nantes, France. Previously Dr. Proutière-Maulion was Senior Lecturer at the University of Western Brittany and subsequently at the University of Nantes. From 2004 she was director of the Center for Maritime and Oceanic Law (CDMO) until assuming her current university position in 2012. Her research and teaching specialties include French and European Union fisheries law, maritime labour law including the International Labour Organization Convention, seafarers' rights and marine resources. Dr. Proutière-Maulion manages the FEMMAR Project of the CDMO which researches gender and women's working conditions in the maritime sector.

Valerie Boré-Eveno is a lecturer at the Faculty of Law and Political Sciences at the University of Nantes (France) and member of the Center for Maritime and Ocean Law (CDMO). She is author of numerous articles on the Law of the Sea and International Protection of Human Rights. Dr. Boré Eveno holds a Doctor of Laws from the University Paris 1 Panthéon Sorbonne, where she completed a dissertation on "treaty interpretation by international tribunals."

Arthur Bowring is Managing Director of the Hong Kong Shipowners Association. He has eight years of seagoing experience, worked for Lloyds Register of Shipping, Cargill International SA, Geneva, Orient Ship Management, Hong Kong and as a Marine Consultant. Mr. Bowring serves as Arbitrator for Shipping and Commercial disputes, and is a member of the Panel of Arbitrators maintained by the Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre. He is a Fellow of the Institute of Chartered Shipbrokers, the Nautical Institute, the Royal Institute of Navigation, the Royal Institution of Naval Architects, the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and the Hong Kong Institute of Arbitrators, and a Member of the Hong Kong Mediation Council.

Emmanuel Chassot has worked at the French Research Institute for Development (IRD) since 2008 in the Mixed Research Unit 212 on "Exploited Marine Ecosystems." He member of a research team of the "Tuna Fisheries Observatory", responsible for monitoring French tropical tuna fisheries of the Indian and Atlantic Oceans. He participates in the working groups of the tuna Regional Fisheries Management Organisation. His research focuses on tuna biology and ecology, as well as fisheries dynamics to promote an Ecosystem Approach to Fisheries Management.

Patrick Chaumette is Professor of Labor Law at the University of Nantes, France and Director of the Center for Maritime and Ocean Law (CDMO) in the University of Nantes. Professor Chaumette specializes in labor and social security as well as in social rights of the Seafarers. He contributed to Droits Maritimes, Beurrier JP (Eds.), Action Dalloz, Paris, 2th ed., 2008. Among his many publications are The Repatriation of Seamen, in A Right to Free Men, Studies in Honor of Professor Alain Fenet, Litec, Paris, LexisNexis; Reflagging a Vessel in the European Market and Dealing with Transnational Collective Disputes: ECJ, 11 December, 2007, ITF & Finnish Seamen's Union v. Viking Line, Case C-438/05, "trans. Janet Heard-Carnot, Ocean & Coastal Law Journal, University of Maine School of Law; The ILO Maritime Labour Convention 2006 (MLC, 2006): An Example of Innovative Normative Consolidation in a Globalized Sector, with A. Charbonneau, in European Labour Law Journal, Intersentia, Mortsels, 2010.

Simon Delfau, is Security Adviser, CMA CGM, France. For seven years was safety advisor for all maritime and land matters within the Safety Management – Safety – Environment Direction of the Company GMA CGM. Simon Delfau holds a degree in maritime law with specialization in maritime security and safety from the University of Nantes, France, and has earned two advanced degrees in International Maritime Management from the School of Business and the School of Merchant Marine in Marseille, France.

Dominique Gaurier is Senior Lecturer, University of Nantes. Dr. Gaurier recently published a textbook on Legal History of International Law, and has translated from Latin into French, classical works, such as Gentili's De Jure Belli and De Légationibus. He has also translated works on Maritime Law from Latin into French, inter alia, De Dominio Maris by Cornelis van Bijnkershoek, and the 17th century Dominio Maris by the Scot Willam Welwod. Professor Gaurier holds a Doctor of Law from the University of Nantes.

Edward Girardet is a writer and journalist based in Geneva. A former reporter for The Christian Science Monitor, he has reported widely on humanitarian and conflict situations in Africa, Asia and elsewhere. He is author of several books including the 2011 Killing the Cranes – A Reporter's Journey Through Three Decades of War in Afghanistan (Chelsea Green, Vermont). He is co-founding director of the Institute for Media and Global Governance/Media21 in Geneva. Mr. Girardet hold degrees from Nottingham University and Yale Law School.

Patrice Guillotreau is an economist at the University of Nantes, France. He has published numerous scientific articles and books on the economics of the sea, of which his Mare Economicum was awarded the Place de Fontenoy Prize. He has worked at the IRD as a researcher in Sète, France, and in Seychelles. He was vice-President of a national working group at the Grenelle de la Mer (French Ministry of Ecology and is the current Deputy-Director of the Research Cluster on marine and coastal sciences in Nantes (FR CNRS 3473) encompassing 430 scientists.

Claude Kirongozi Ichalanga is Associate Professor in the University of Kinshasa School of Law, University of Kisangani and Visiting Professor in University Kongo, Bas-Congo in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. He is also Visiting Scholar in the University of Maine School of Law. His fields are international law, maritime law, public law, history of law and international development. Dr. Ichalanga has previously published on international law and maritime issues including Nation-Building in Democratic Republic of the Congo and the law of maritime ports. He holds university degrees in law from the University of Kinshasa (Congo) and a Doctorate in Law from Dalian Maritime University, China.

James Kraska is the Howard S. Levie Chair in Operational Law, member of the faculty of the International Law Department, and senior associate in the Center for Irregular Warfare and Armed Groups at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island. A commander in the U.S. Navy Judge Advocate General's Corps, Commander Kraska also serves as a senior fellow at the Foreign Policy Research Institute (USA) and as guest investigator at the Marine Policy Center, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. Commander Kraska served in four Pentagon staff assignments, including deputy legal adviser to the Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, law of the sea attorney for the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, and oceans policy adviser and chief of international negotiations on the Joint Staff, where he was the principal military adviser for piracy policy. Dr. Kraska holds a J.D.

from Indiana University Maurer School of Law, and an LL.M. and S.J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law.

David Kaplan is a researcher at the French Research Institute for Development (IRD). His research field is modeling effects of marine reserves on fish populations. He is also a lecturer at the University of Montpellier, France, and spent many years in the United States and Chile as an assistant professor.

Cédric Leboeuf is a Research Fellow in the Center for Maritime and Ocean Law (CDMO) in the University of Nantes, France. He holds degrees from the Universities of Lille, France and Leuven (KUL), Belgium where he concentrated in European and international law and politics as applied to security and safety. He is Laureate of the Institute of High Studies of National Defense (IHEDN), Military School of Paris, France, in 2009-2010, and an ad hoc legal advisor to the French School of Merchant Marine, DCNS. Mr. Leboeuf served as European Coordinator for this book project. His doctoral thesis was written under the supervision of Prof. Patrick Chaumette, University of Nantes and is entitled "Treatment and authentication of the threats and risks at sea".

Fozia Lone is Assistant Professor of Law in the City University of Hong Kong School of Law where she teaches International Law, Common Law Torts, Humanitarian Law and Advanced Issues in Public International Law. Dr. Lone has tutored international law at the University of Aberdeen (Scotland) and practiced law in Kashmir where she was a Member of the Bar Council of Jammu and Kashmir. She has authored articles on various aspects of public international law, contributed an entry to the Oxford Bibliography on international law, and is currently writing a book on the common law of torts. Dr. Lone holds a Bachelor of Laws (B.A.) from the Faculty of Law, University of Kashmir; a Masters of Laws (LL.M.) and a Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) from the School of Law in the University of Aberdeen, Scotland.

Alexander McKinnon, is a non-resident Visiting Scholar of the Center for Oceans and Coastal Law in the University of Maine School of Law and candidate for a Masters of Law (LL.M.) in the University of Cambridge, United Kingdom. He previously served as a Visiting Fellow in the Hong Kong Centre for Maritime and Transportation Law in the City University of Hong Kong; as an Associate in the Supreme Court of Queensland, Australia; and Lecturer and Tutor in Law at CQ University Australia. Mr. McKinnon has published monographs on maritime ports and piracy.

Martin Murphy is an internationally-recognized expert on piracy and unconventional conflict at sea. His published works include three books:

Somalia, the New Barbary? Piracy and Islam in the Horn of Africa (2011), Small Boats, Weak States, Dirty Money: Piracy and Maritime Terrorism in the Modern World (2009), both with Columbia University Press, and Contemporary Piracy and Maritime Terrorism, Adelphi paper 388 (2007), for the London-based International Institute for Strategic Studies. Dr. Murphy is currently writing two further books: Piracy, Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare at Sea: Navies Confront the 21st-Century and The Maritime Trinity: A History of Piracy, Trade and War.

Oya Özcayir, Maritime Law Consultant & Member of Äzmir Law Bar, Turkey and associate professor of maritime law. She studied law in Turkey and continued her studies in England for her LLM and PhD in Maritime Law. She is an experienced lawyer, trainer and lecturer. Dr. Özcayir has taught Maritime Law in Turkey and at Cardiff University Law School in England. She has published numerous articles on aspects of maritime law in various journals. Dr. Özcayir is the author of two books: Liability for Oil Pollution and Collisions and Port State Control, published by Lloyd's of London Press. She is a member of the Editorial Board of Maritime Risk International and the editor of the International Maritime Organization section of the Journal of International Maritime Law. Dr. Özcayir is a Member of Äzmir Law Bar in Turkey and a frequent speaker at international conferences.

Poomintr Sooksripaisarnkit, LL.B. (Thammasat), LL.M. (International Commercial Law) (Leicester), PhD (Leicester), is Assistant Professor in the School of Law, City University of Hong Kong and Maritime Specialist in The Hong Kong Centre for Maritime and Transportation Law in City University of Hong Kong.

Michael J. Stepek is a partner in the London and Geneva offices of the international law firm of Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld LLC and Co-Chair of the Institute for Law & Development Policy in Geneva, Switzerland. Mr. Stepek has more than 25 years of experience in the practice of international public and private law counseling clients on international commercial, investment and trade, multilateral investment treaties and commercial agreements and other matters. He holds a Juris Doctor with Honors from the University of Notre Dame.

Timothy Steigelman is an attorney at the law firm Kelly, Rimmel & Zimmerman in Portland, Maine. He holds a Juris Doctor (J.D.), summa cum laude, from the University of Maine School of Law; a Master of Arts in Government and Politics from the University of Maryland; a Diploma from the United States Naval War College; and a Bachelor of Science, with Distinction, from the United States Naval Academy. He previously served on active duty in the United States Navy, and continues serving as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Navy Reserve.

Captain Tom Tulloch, MSM CD Royal Canadian Navy, serves on the staff of NATO's Maritime Command Headquarters in Northwood, United Kingdom. A career Naval Officer, he has commanded HMC Ships at sea. He served as the Chief of Staff to the Commander of Standing NATO Maritime Group One on two occasions for counter-piracy operations off the Horn of Africa in 2010 and 2011. Captain Tulloch was awarded the Meritorious Service Medal for his leadership in action against pirates.

Thomas Vallée is Professor of Economics at the University of Nantes. He is a researcher at the Laboratory of Economics and Management Nantes Atlantique (LEMNA). His research interests concern the dynamic game theory, industrial economics, economics of fisheries and governance. He is a member of the International Society of the International Dynamical Games (ISDG). He has been published in numerous international journals, including, Journal of Evolutionary Economics, Journal of Economics Dynamics and Control, Macroeconomics Dynamics, and Annals of Operations Research.